

STUDY ABROAD

Education Abroad

At Quinnipiac University, we feel a sense of obligation to work toward a more interconnected and globally engaged environment. We do this by increasing intentional global engagement opportunities for students, faculty and staff to learn both in and outside the classroom. Quinnipiac students may have the opportunity to participate in semester and short-term programs, internships, community engagement, clinical, research and faculty-led programs abroad in various countries such as Barbados, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Germany, Guatemala, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Morocco, Poland and Spain. Study abroad programs can develop responsible and engaged citizens by cultivating their cultural awareness, humility, skills and knowledge necessary to participate respectfully in the global community. All students are advised to plan early to study abroad and discuss with their academic adviser to determine whether they can fulfill their graduation requirements through a study abroad program. Students also must attend an information session to understand the policies and procedures for our education abroad opportunities.

For more information, contact the Office of Global Engagement (<https://educationabroad.qu.edu>).

Semester and Short-Term Policies

Students of all undergraduate programs are encouraged to include a study-abroad experience in their curricula at Quinnipiac University (QU). The Office of Global Engagement policies for study abroad are as follows for semester and short-term (non-faculty led) programs:

- Students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 at the time of applying.
- Students must not have any current or pending conduct sanctions at the time of applying.
- The study abroad program must be pre-approved by the Office of Global Engagement.
- Semester abroad students must maintain full-time status (12–16 QU credits) while abroad. Some host institutions limit enrollment to 12 QU credits on-site for visa purposes. Students may take online courses with QU once they have met the host institution's course requirements.
- Short-term students can take up to two courses, totaling no more than 7 credits, during their program. To take more courses, students must request approval from the Office of Global Engagement.
- Students are required to work with their academic advisers to ensure that studying abroad is suitable for their academic needs and that they stay on track for graduation.
- Students studying abroad are required to comply with the policies and procedures set forth by the Office of Global Engagement. Failure to comply will result in ineligibility to study abroad.
- The cost of a semester abroad includes, but is not limited to, Quinnipiac's tuition/fees and standard room (meal plan is not charged and is the responsibility of the student) and an obligatory overseas emergency medical insurance and security assistance fee.
  - If a student is selected for a QU exchange program abroad, charges include QU tuition (residence fees will be paid by the student directly to the host institution; QU meal plan is not charged).
  - Additional expenses include, but are not limited to, airfare, visas, meals, academic materials, lab fees, public transportation, personal travel, etc. The student is also responsible for paying program withdrawal fees.

- For a short-term study abroad program, the student is required to pay the program cost directly to the host institution or affiliate. Additionally, students will need to enroll in and purchase obligatory overseas emergency medical and security assistance insurance.
- What if I am on QU employee benefit?
  - Option 1: QU will bill the cost of the study abroad semester program to the student and the student can utilize any loans toward the cost. Scholarships or grants are not applied in Option 1.
  - Option 2: Pay QU's tuition/fees and standard room (less the dining service fee); all financial aid that the student is awarded (Grants, Scholarships, Loans, etc.) is applicable for Option 2.
- Students receiving financial aid at Quinnipiac may use it for study abroad, including federal and state aid, college grants, and scholarships. However, work-study funds cannot be applied. The university will coordinate billing with third-party payers, but it is ultimately up to each payer to decide whether outside scholarships can be used for study abroad expenses. Students who receive notification of an outside scholarship should scan the award notice to onestop@qu.edu and finaid@qu.edu
- Students are required to live at the study abroad program's approved residence facility.
- For Quinnipiac students studying abroad for a semester or short term, the credits and grades for approved courses taken abroad are included in the student's academic transcript, and all grades contribute to the calculation of the student's GPA. Grading is solely the responsibility of the faculty and/or lecture teaching the courses. If students have questions about grading in a particular course, they must consult the respective faculty and/or lecture. Quinnipiac cannot alter grades issued by another institution.
- Students may not take classes for a pass-fail grade or transfer credit.

Study Abroad Withdrawal Policies

Withdrawal from a semester or short-term program abroad initiated by the student, QU, the program providers and/or the host institution may result in, but not limited to, a loss of housing, flight, program fees and/or tuition.

- Regardless of the reason and effective date of withdrawal, it is the responsibility of students to immediately notify QU's Office of Global Engagement in writing to understand the implications of their withdrawal actions.
- Depending on the circumstances of the withdrawal, the student may be subject to QU's student conduct process.
- If QU, the program providers and/or the host institution cancel a program (even after the program has started) for reasons beyond its control, including, but not limited to government actions (including those restricting travel), pandemics, fire, flood, explosion, earthquake or other natural forces, war, civil unrest, accident, terrorism, any strike or labor disturbance or any other event similar to those enumerated above (a "force majeure" event), participants are not guaranteed refunds.
- If there are recoverable costs, they may include program fees, including tuition, housing, program-specific social/cultural activities/excursions, safety and security insurance, administrative costs and organized flights. Many of these costs are paid before the start of the program and are not typically recoverable. Students must understand these financial commitments in advance of committing to the study abroad program.

- There is no refund credit for a student who is suspended or expelled from the program for any reason.
