Students in the Film, Television and Media Arts BA program explore all aspects of physical production through their coursework while also gaining a strong foundation in film history, analysis, and theory. Students begin working with cameras their first semester on campus, and the curriculum builds on these foundational skills through a progression of required production courses. The curriculum introduces students to every aspect of professional filmmaking, providing them with the technical and narrative skills to bring compelling stories to life on-screen. They learn to conceptualize and organize ideas clearly and forcefully through writing and to shape those ideas for expression through image and sound. After mastering a full spectrum of basic production techniques, students select elective courses that broaden their skillset and reflect their specific filmmaking interests. Areas of study may include directing, screenwriting, cinematography and lighting, emerging cinematography and virtual production, VFX, animation, sound acquisition and design, costume and production design, editing, documentary production, producing, etc. The curriculum culminates in a Senior Capstone Project, where students work together over two semesters to produce a professional-caliber narrative, or documentary short film to submit to domestic and international film festivals.

Graduates of the Film, Television and Media Arts programs are well-prepared to work on set in various capacities on both film and television productions as well as pursue creative and corporate careers with myriad companies in the entertainment industry. Graduates also have a solid foundation to pursue graduate (MA or MFA) work.

FTM majors are encouraged to participate in our QU in LA program (<http://catalog.qu.edu/academics/study-abroad/#quinnipiacinlaprogramtext>) and further strengthen their engagement with the entertainment industry.

Programs of Study

The standard degree in Film, Television and Media Arts is the 45-credit Bachelor of Arts. Students enrolled in the BA in Film, Television and Media Arts are required to complete a minor (typically 18 credits) that will complement their career and/or personal interests. This minor can be from any program either inside or outside the School of Communications. The BA degree requires students to complete one of the following drama courses: DR 150, DR 160, DR 181, DR 220 or DR 260.

The BA in Film, Television and Media Arts requires a minimum of 123 credits for degree completion.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the program, students should be able to demonstrate the following competencies:

- Creative Thinking and Visual Literacy: Develop the ability to conceptualize and produce visual stories demonstrating aesthetic competence, fluency with visual grammar, and an appreciation of the historical context from which new forms and stories are created.
- Written and Oral Communication: Acquire the facility to create effective content for visual media, as well as an ability to demonstrate both written and oral proficiency within a variety of professional formats and delivery platforms.
- Critical Thinking and Reasoning: Develop the skills needed to critically analyze the work of others as a means to problem-solve and better inform students' own original creative output. Achieve a proficiency in creating professional quality work within the parameters and practical limitations of a broad spectrum of production environments. Recognize works of art as visual arguments, and be able to use analytical skills to assess their effectiveness.
- Information Fluency: Learn to plan and produce effectively across a wide array of technical contexts, demonstrating facility and expertise with preproduction, production and postproduction phases of film, television and interactive media creation.

5. Social Intelligence: Demonstrate an ability to work effectively within groups and production teams, to understand and manage collaborations and to act ethically, constructively and responsibly in the process of achieving individual and common goals.
6. Diversity Awareness and Sensitivity: Acquire an understanding of and respect for the similarities and differences among human communities, including a recognition and appreciation for the unique talents and contributions of all individuals.
7. Responsible Citizenship: Learn to recognize and analyze media-related issues and influence decisions and actions at the local, national and global community, and to become engaged as responsible citizens.

Admission Requirements: School of Communications

The requirements for admission into the undergraduate School of Communications programs are the same as those for admission to Quinnipiac University.

Admission to the university is competitive, and applicants are expected to present a strong college prep program in high school. Prospective first-year students are strongly encouraged to file an application as early in the senior year as possible, and arrange to have first quarter grades sent from their high school counselor as soon as they are available.

For detailed admission requirements, including required documents, please visit the Admissions (<http://catalog.qu.edu/general-information/admissions/>) page of this catalog.
