CJ 271. Public Order Crimes (SO 271). 3 Credits.
Approximately two-thirds of the inmates in U.S. correctional institutions have been found guilty of public order crimes, "moral crimes" or crimes not likely to have a self-identified victim. This course concentrates on crimes associated with such activities as illegitimate gambling, consensual sex and the criminal use and sale of both legal and illegal substances.
Prerequisites: Take SO 101 SO 101H or CJ 101.
Offered: Every year, Spring

CJ 290. Criminal Justice Research Methods. 3 Credits.
This course provides an introduction to social science research methods used in the criminal justice field. Students examine how qualitative and quantitative research methods apply to social science research.
The course places particular emphasis on the importance of scientific methods in reaching informed conclusions. Students examine a number of methods commonly used in social science disciplines and learn how to interpret the results of research conducted using these methods.
Understanding how social scientists investigate social phenomena allows students to accurately interpret and apply findings from criminal justice research. Students should complete the course by the end of their sophomore year or second year in the major.
Prerequisites: Take CJ 101.
Offered: Every year, All

CJ 299. Independent Study in Criminal Justice. 1-6 Credits.

CJ 300. Special Topics. 3 Credits.
A variety of advanced special topics courses are periodically offered.
Prerequisites: Take SO 101 SO 101H or CJ 101.
Offered: As needed

CJ 320. Victimology. 3 Credits.
Historically, the primary concern of the justice system was the apprehension and punishment of offenders. More recently, however, the needs of crime victims are increasingly recognized both formally and informally in the justice process. This course examines the emergence of victimology as a field of study and the origins and impacts of victim stigma. Students learn about the range of harms crime victims experience and the importance of addressing victim needs throughout the justice process.
Prerequisites: Take SO 101 SO 101H or CJ 101.
Offered: Every year, Spring

CJ 330. Perspectives on Violence (SO 330). 3 Credits.
This course explores the many ways that violence is viewed in our society. Topics include types of violence, empirical evidence of incidence, characteristics of violent crimes, offender motivation, victim profiles and sociological and theoretical explanations.
Prerequisites: Take SO 101 SO 101H or CJ 101.
Offered: Every year, Fall

CJ 333. Drugs, Alcohol and Society (SO 333). 3 Credits.
This analytical discussion-based course explores the use of drugs and alcohol in U.S. society. The emphasis is on drug and alcohol use and abuse as a social phenomenon. Students explore issues such as the relationship of drug use to particular groups in society (age, sex, race/ethnicity); patterns of drug use and abuse; the promotion of drugs by the media; and drug and alcohol abuse in historical perspective. Students also learn about drug categories, drug education, prevention and treatment and about drug laws.
Prerequisites: Take SO 101 SO 101H or CJ 101.
Offered: Every year, Summer

CJ 343. Forensic Issues in Law Enforcement. 3 Credits.
This course presents an overview of the scientific method and its application to the analysis of physical evidence as it impacts law enforcement investigations. Topics include the study of basic methods of documentation, collection and preservation of physical evidence; general schemes for the analysis of chemical and biological evidence; identification and individualization of firearms, fingerprints, imprints, hairs, fibers, blood and body fluids, paint, drugs and poisons, and other materials associated with crimes. The course material is reinforced through the use of actual case studies, hands-on exercises and class exercises.
Prerequisites: Take SO 101 SO 101H or CJ 101.
Offered: Every year, Fall

CJ 355. Crime and Media (SO 355). 3 Credits.
Despite little direct contact with offenders or the criminal justice system, people typically hold strong opinions about crime-related issues. The goal of this course is to understand how media sources shape our attitudes and beliefs about crime and how we "should" respond to it. To this end, participants examine media involvement in constructing the reality of crime and justice and its implications for the justice process.
Prerequisites: Take SO 101 SO 101H or CJ 101.
Offered: Every year, Spring

CJ 360. Inside-Out Prison Exchange Seminar. 3 Credits.
The "Inside-Out" Prison Exchange seminar is part of a national movement giving undergraduate students (outside students) and prisoners (inside students) an opportunity to learn together. This course, being offered to outside students at Quinnipiac and male inside students at a Connecticut state prison, asks students to examine the impact of status upon American life by considering issues of personal and collective voice in communities, variation in access to conventional success opportunities, and the effect of status upon ability to effectively engage in local and national communities. Through application of theoretical perspectives and consideration of practical experience students are exposed to a diversity of material that allows them to more fully examine and understand the complex impact of social status upon American life. Note: this course takes place inside a Connecticut State Prison.
Prerequisites: Instructor discretion.
Offered: Every year, Fall

CJ 370. Constitution, Ethics and Policing. 3 Credits.
Students are introduced to the constitutional limitations and ethical considerations that affect police behavior. These include use of force, coercion, entrapment, right to counsel, wiretapping, confessions and exclusionary rule.
Prerequisites: Take SO 101 SO 101H or CJ 101.
Offered: Every year, Fall
