STUDENT ORGANIZATION CONDUCT PROCEDURES

When the university is notified of an incident allegedly involving a student organization, there may be an investigation. The investigation may include preliminary meetings with student organization leaders, individual interviews with general members or other witnesses, and the collection of any other relevant information. Upon completion of an investigation, information will be reviewed by the Director of Student Conduct and Community Standards or designee and the following process will begin:

- The Director of Student Conduct and Community Standards or their designee will serve as the conduct officer and will schedule a conduct meeting with a student representative from the organization. A notice of the time, date, and location of the meeting will be sent to the student representative via university email prior to the meeting. This notification will also include a brief incident description and the specific policies to be addressed in the conduct meeting.
- A request for postponement of up to five additional days for a conduct meeting may be made. Quinnipiac students are responsible for checking their Quinnipiac email account at all times including during examination and vacation periods. Excuses of not checking an email account are not acceptable reasons for postponement. If an organization does not attend the conduct meeting, a decision will be made in their absence, and they will forfeit the right to appeal.
- At the conduct meeting, the organization representative may be joined by the organization's official adviser and/or a representative from the inter/national headquarters or designee. Advisers serve as a support person during conduct meetings, and can assist with meeting preparation; however, advisers cannot advocate or speak for an organization.
- The procedural rights for student organizations will be reviewed, followed by a review of the alleged violations of university policy. The organization representative is then asked to declare if the student organization and/or the individual member(s) are responsible for any of the alleged violations.
- The organization representative may present relevant information, which may include witness statements acquired by the student(s).
- The conduct officer will question the organization representative.
- The conduct officer will decide if the student organization is responsible or not responsible for the violation(s) based on a preponderance of the evidence.
- The conduct officer will find an organization responsible if the violation is proven by a preponderance of the information presented; that is, based on the information the conduct officer finds credible and convincing, it is more likely than not that the organization is responsible for the violation.
- The sanction(s) may be delivered at the conclusion of the meeting or following the meeting. At the time the decision is rendered, the organization representative will receive the conduct outcome letter, which includes the finding and any sanction(s).
- A copy of the conduct meeting outcome and any formal sanction letters are kept on file. The Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards does not permit the release of any organization conduct records.
- At the discretion of the Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards, individual students involved in organizational violations of university policy may be investigated and addressed through the Student Conduct Process.

Procedural Rights

- Notice - The right to be informed in writing of the specific alleged violation(s) in which the organization is suspected of involvement.
- Procedures - The right to be informed verbally and/or in writing of the organization conduct procedures.
- Information - The right to know the nature of the alleged violations prior to the meeting and object to information being heard that is unrelated to the incident.
- Witness Statements - The right to present written witness statements in a conduct meeting.
- Adviser - The right to have the organization's official adviser and/or at the discretion of the conduct officer a representative from the inter/national headquarters attend the meeting. The individual(s) may not address the conduct officer but may consult freely with the student organization representative.
- Meeting - The right to request a postponement, subject to the availability of the conduct officer, of up to five business days from the original conduct meeting date.
- Written Decision - The right to have a written response reporting the results of the meeting.
- Appeal - The right to request an appeal of a conduct meeting, if found responsible. Student organizations who fail to attend their conduct meeting forfeit their right to request an appeal.

Sanctions

Student organizations found in violation of university policy will have one or more of the following sanctions imposed on them:

a. Closure - A permanent separation of the student organization from the university without the possibility of return.

b. Suspension - A fixed period of time (at least one semester) during which the student organization may not participate in any university activities and is not recognized by the university. At that time, the organization's events/trips/fundraisers are canceled, budget (if they have one) is frozen, and they are restricted from functioning as a student organization. At the end of the suspension period, the student organization may regain recognition upon the recommendation of and the completion of any sanctions assigned by the conduct officer.

c. Deferred Suspension - A notice to a student organization that their actions are of such a serious nature that removal of university recognition is being considered. The university will defer the suspension as long as the student organization meets all requirements. Deferred suspension will last a minimum of one semester. Any future violations during this time may result in immediate removal of university recognition for a period of time and the possibility of additional sanctions. While on deferred suspension, the organization may lose privileges including but not limited to:

i. events/trips/fundraisers
ii. budget access (if they have one)
iii. ability to reserve space
iv. use of Quinnipiac University name
v. other restrictions at the discretion of the conduct officer

All organization business must be approved by the university while on deferred suspension. At the end of the deferred
