BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN HEALTH SCIENCE STUDIES

The Health Science Studies program provides an excellent opportunity for health care and science professionals who hold an associate’s degree to obtain the bachelor’s degree. The program provides the maximum utilization of previously acquired credits from academic and clinical training. An individual curriculum plan, approved by an academic adviser, can be designed that allows flexibility in choosing courses to build concentrations in the health science fields, as well as in other areas such as business, management, psychology and sociology.
