

INTERNATIONAL LAW AND POLICY

Students who earn the certificate for this concentration not only develop an understanding of one or more of the major areas of International Law and Policy, such as International Human Rights, Dispute Resolution, Environmental, Health, Tax and Criminal Law, but also get the opportunity to develop a literacy in the language of international relations, which can prepare them to advocate, negotiate, mediate and litigate globally as well as locally. Skill development focuses on cross-cultural understanding, negotiation and a general proficiency in law on an international stage. As outlined below, the requisites for the International Law and Policy concentration include coursework, an international experience and a writing component.

Other university courses

You may apply toward the 18 credits you need to earn for the International Law and Policy concentration up to 6 credits earned in other Quinnipiac University departments. You must obtain the permission of the professor teaching the course, a concentration co-director, and the law school's associate dean for academic affairs before enrolling in these courses.

EC 350	International Economics	3
IB 201	Globalization and International Business	3
IB 311	International Marketing	3
IB 324	Negotiating Internationally	3
PL 337	Human Rights: Theory and Practice	3
PO 211	Introduction to International Relations	3
PO 311	Topics in International Relations	3
PO 331	Topics in Comparative Government	3

Modern Languages

You may apply up to 6 credits of modern language study toward your concentration requirements.

2. International Experience Requirement

Concentration earners must also complete one of these international experiences:

- Participation in the World Summit of Nobel Peace Laureates, in conjunction with the International Human Rights Law and Transitional Justice course
- Participation in the Law School's delegation to the Oxford University Human Rights and Humanitarian Action Seminar
- Participation in the Law School's delegation to the annual Human Rights and Humanitarian Action Seminar at Yale, Quinnipiac, and the United Nations
- Participation in the Law School/International Human Rights Law Society Nicaragua experience
- Participation in the Law School's summer program at Trinity College in Dublin, Ireland (the 6 credits from this program apply toward the concentration requirements)
- Domestic or international externship or other experiences approved by both a concentration co-director and the associate dean for academic affairs; if an externship, the placement must also be approved by the externship professor

3. Writing Requirement

Students must complete a paper of a quality that would satisfy the Advanced Writing Requirement (<http://catalog.qu.edu/school-of-law/academic-regulations/#text>) (Section I.E.) and that addresses an international law topic approved by a concentration co-director. A concentration co-director must approve the topic in advance, unless the paper is written in connection with one of the listed required or core courses. A paper written for a journal may qualify if a concentration co-director approves the topic in advance.

4. Options

A student may designate any course or paper as not counting toward the concentration, so long as it is not required for the concentration and the student meets the concentration requirements with another course or paper.

5. Waiver

A concentration co-director and the associate dean for academic affairs may waive any requirements for the concentration (other than the GPA requirement), if they both agree to do so.
